ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for generating, initializing, and scheduling of two interrupt queue heads to represent a single endpoint are described. In an embodiment, a method includes generating primary and secondary interrupt queue heads to represent a single interrupt endpoint. The method further includes initializing the primary and secondary interrupt queue heads. The method also includes scheduling the primary and secondary queue heads in immediately subsequent frames.